

NEWS OF THE FLOODS.

The Storm Much Worse Than at First Reported.

AWFUL DISASTER AT CECIL.

A House Full of People Is Swept Away by the Torrents—Eight Persons Drowned—Railroad Washed Out—Other Details.

PITTSBURG, July 29.—Eight persons were drowned in the flood. Seven of these met death at Cecil, a mining and hamlet in Washington county, the eighth victim going down at Carnegie. Samuel McKinney kept a boarding house at Cecil for the accommodation of men and miners. The house was situated on the banks of Miller's run, a tributary of Chartier's creek. Ordinarily the run, which flows through a valley flanked by high and steep hills, could scarcely float a ship, but a cloud-burst filled its closely confined quarters. There were 13 people in the McKinney house when the water commenced to rise at 9:30 p. m., but no serious damage was apprehended. The female portion of the household continued their dressing for the dance, which was being held in a neighboring hall. Suddenly the house, a 2-story frame, was brushed from its foundation. Below the site of the house about 200 yards stands an old-fashioned country bridge which spans the stream. The house crashed against this structure, the roof was torn off and the rest of the building was crushed like an eggshell being forced under the bridge. Higgins and W. B. Whitner were caught between the first and second floors. Higgins died there, but Whitner made most miraculous escape. Those on the second floor were badly injured. Just below the bridge the wreckage of the house stuck on a sand bar and those of the party who were all alive were rescued. Clyde Beatty was another hero of the disaster who lost his life. He made strenuous efforts to save Margaret McKinney and Jennie Holmes and had been lodged in a tree when a wave came along and swept all three to death. Wright, the colored livery man, while attempting to drive across a bridge at Murray Hill, was caught by the high water of Chartier's creek, near Carnegie, and drowned.

Almost a Cyclone.

VAN WERT, O., July 29.—At 4 o'clock the sky was clear and the heat intense. At 4:30 the air became icy cold, and the worst storm in years broke over this section. The rain poured in torrents, and the streets soon looked like little lakes. The most important losses so far reported consist of a brick church and schoolhouse and two large barns in Ridge township blown over. Dave Rison's house blown over and the roof blown off the First National Bank building. The damage to crops is awful. The corn lays flat to the ground and the wheat and oats swim in lakes of water. Conservative estimates make the loss fully $300,000.

Flood at Uniontown.

UNIONTOWN, Pa., July 29.—The loss in Fayette county by the flood will reach $100,000. At 1 o'clock this morning the water stood 18 inches higher than at any previous record and immense damage was done. All the low sections were flooded. People had to leave their houses and see their furniture ruined. The Southwest road sustained some bad washouts, but are now running regularly. The Baltimore and Ohio trestle here was swept away and bridges and tracks washed out between here and Conneville. The gas and electric light works were flooded and the town was in total darkness.

Pupils Knocked Senseless.

PHILADELPHIA, July 29.—The wire service from the interior of the state, which was crippled by the storm, has been restored, and reports received tell of great damage to crops and buildings, and in some cases loss of life from the fury of the wind and lightning. At Mountlake, Clearfield county, Frank Brumbaugh was instantly killed by a stroke of lightning, and the Swedish church, used as a schoolhouse, was struck by another bolt. Seven of the pupils were knocked senseless.

Worse Than Reported.

DUNBAR, Pa., July 29.—Judging from present appearances the Baltimore and Ohio road will be tied up on this branch for at least two days. The damage done to the road is greater than at first anticipated. Washouts have occurred at short intervals all along the Fayette county branch, perhaps the worst being at Fayette station, where one of the best bridges on the line was completely wrecked, even the piers of solid masonry being washed away.

Marshes Under Water.

ADA, O., July 29.—This section was hit by a very destructive storm. Several small buildings were blown down. Telegraph poles are down along the Pittsburgh, Fort Wayne and Chicago tracks. The two great marshes near here are completely inundated, and many of the people were compelled to move out.

Drowned in the Flood.

PITTSBURG, July 29.—William Rose, a Swedish gardener aged 30 years, was drowned near Boston, Pa., while attempting to ford Long run. His body was recovered in the Ohio river three hours later at Avalon, 28 miles from Boston. This makes 18 deaths so far reported.

Fire at Hurley.

HURLEY, Wis., July 29.—A terrible fire occurred at this place. An entire block of business houses were in flames. The postoffice burned. Aid has been asked from Ironwood. The fire was gotten under control. Several blocks were burned.

Explosion at Victor.

VICTOR, Colo., July 29.—The explosion of 50 pounds of giant powder seriously damaged four business blocks. Many persons were bruised and cut, but none killed.

EASTERN HEADQUARTERS.

What Mr. Hanna Says About the Campaign While at New York.

NEW YORK, July 29.—Chairman Hanna announced that the city headquarters of the Republican national committee will be established in the Metropolitan Life Insurance company's building at Twenty-third street and Madison avenue. The headquarters will occupy the greater part of the fourth floor and will be opened for business Thursday.

Mr. Hanna had many callers. Among them was Fred S. Gibbs, national committeeman for this state. He accepted an invitation to attend the conference of the executive committee.

Mr. Hanna was asked whether Mr. Gibbs came from Mr. Platt. He said: "I presume that in one way Mr. Gibbs represented Mr. Platt. He did not see Mr. Platt and I have not invited him to the meeting of the committee and I don't expect that he will come. But, see here: why draw Platt's name into this thing? There is a factional fight in this state. I recognize no faction and I believe that all good Republicans are working for the good of their party."

"This meeting is for the purpose of planning the campaign in this section. I have a dispatch from Mr. Quay saying he will not be here until Wednesday."

When Mr. Hanna read of the action of the Democratic state committee in maintaining silence over the Chicago ticket, he said: "Well, if they keep this thing up we won't have much opposition. The action means that there will be nothing done in New York state for Mr. Bryan until after Sept. 16."

A delegation from the Tariff Reform league called upon Mr. Hanna and asked that he make tariff the issue instead of the money question. Mr. Hanna said that he could not decide that question, but that the delegation could send a representative to the committee meeting.

Senator Stephen B. Elkins and Melville E. Ingalls of the Big Four railroad were with Mr. Hanna and Mrs. J. Ellen Foster, president of the Woman's Republican Association of the United States, called and advised Mr. Hanna to have the campaign headquarters located in the west. Mr. Hanna told her to attend the meeting today.

RACE WITH AN EXPRESS.

Six Riders on a Sextuplet Bicycle Beat an Express Train.

SYRACUSE, July 29.—When the westward bound Empire State express was about two miles west of Syracuse it raced with six athletic young men on a sextuplet.

At this point is a stretch of cinder path about four feet wide and a mile and a half in length. As soon as the Empire State in sight the sextuplet got under way. The Empire was soon abreast and the race began. For a quarter of a mile it was an even thing. At the end of a half mile the sextuplet was four lengths ahead. The sextuplet was then obliged to slow down.

VIEWS ABOUT THE VERDICT.

The Sentences Were Regarded by the Men in the English Parliament as Lighter Than Was Expected.

LONDON, July 29.—The sentences imposed upon Dr. Jameson and his companions were very generally discussed in the lobbies of parliament. Contrary to the feeling manifested by the fair spectators and the sympathizing friends in the courtroom, the sentences were lighter than were expected by men in parliament.

It is recognized, however, that the sentences are more serious for the military prisoners than the mere term fixed for their imprisonment, since it is expected that they will be cashiered.

TERMS OF SETTLEMENT.

The Agreement Between the Brown Company and Strikers.

CLEVELAND, July 29.—The first report of the settlement of the strike at the Brown hoisting works was erroneous. The terms of the settlement, as given out by the company and agreed to by the attorney of the strikers, were as follows:

Our late employees can resume employment at our works as fast as we can furnish them work. In order to save confusion and disappointment at the works, we request each former employee who desires employment to notify us at the works or by letter and await notice from us of our having work to set him at.

Our contract of employment will continue to be individual with each man and will continue to endeavor to do justice to each man. All employees shall bring their grievances or complain first before their foreman, but if not satisfactorily adjusted by the latter they may bring them before the superintendent and after him before the manager, and all such complaints or grievances shall receive careful consideration.

Must Take Their Chances.

LINCOLN, Neb., July 29.—Governor Holcomb is in good spirits and feeling somewhat better physically since his trip to the Populist convention at St. Louis. He said he believed Mr. Bryan would accept the Populist nomination, and as he had lately held a lengthy interview with him, the governor's opinion is worthy of a great deal of weight. The middle over vice president, he said, would be settled by fusion in different states. Sewall and Watson to take their chances in the electoral college.

Mr. Goldschmidt was United States consul general at Vienna under President Harrison.

It is believed that this bureau will aid the German press of this country in securing campaign literature of special interest to the German press. In addition to this Mr. Goldschmidt will select the campaign speakers best qualified to present the Republican cause to the German element in the different sections of this country.

Charged With Attempted Assault on a 14-Year-Old Girl.

SEDALIA, Mo., July 29.—Mart Crawford, 38, a widower, employed as a section foreman on the Missouri Pacific, was lynched a few miles from Tipton. He was arrested charged with attempted assault upon Miss Mary Tuckley, 16. The girl was en route from Kansas City to Versailles, the home of Crawford, and consented to accompany him to that place in a private conveyance.

The assault was attempted a few miles from Versailles. The meeting of two men in the roadway alone prevented Crawford succeeding. Sheriff Lumpsee started for Versailles with the prisoner but was met by an unmasked mob who took Crawford from him and hanged him to a tree.

A CIRCULAR GIVING DATA.

In Order to Answer the Numerous Queries Relative to Financial Matters the Treasury Officials Prepare a Succinct Circular.

WASHINGTON, July 29.—So numerous are the questions brought to the treasury by every mail seeking information relative to financial and currency matters that the overworked clerical force of the director of the mint has been totally unable to answer them.

All available copies of the report of the director for last year, which contained tables and information which would answer a large portion of the queries have been exhausted, and at last the department has hit upon the device of printing a circular, containing in succinct form statements of facts relative to the coinage, bullion production, circulation, per capita in various countries and such information as will meet the needs of the many persons who are now studying the campaign issues.

It is expected that the circular itself will be received from the printer for distribution about the end of the week.

TRAVELS FAST.

Good News, in Lima, Travels Nearly as Fast as Had.

Have you heard it? Heard the good news? Heard your neighbors talking about it? It means a new back or an old one. Not necessarily old in years. But old in misery. By an old back we mean a bad back. Bad backs are numerous. Some lame, some weak or aching. Most back troubles come from the kidneys.

Doan's Kidney Pills cure them all. They reach the cause. They cure urinary troubles. Is the cure lasting? Well, Lima people say it is. That's pretty good proof. Here's another case.

Mr. W. H. Maise, of No. 123 South McDonald street, says: "I have not had much of any kidney trouble beyond an attack of meanness across the small of my back, and bile that continued there was a dull aching over my hips. I had also headache and dizziness at that time. I am not accustomed to having headache. Well, I am a great admirer of patent medicines, but, reading of Doan's Kidney Pills being good for troubles of that nature, and, having a bottle obtained patent medicine tablets from Mr. Melville, for indigestion, that was most satisfactory. I thought I would try Doan's Kidney Pills, and I got a box at his drug store, No. 147 North Main street. They were pretty prompt in curing me, and after finishing the box, I pronounced myself perfectly free from the soreness and lameness across the back and the dull aching that tired feeling so unbecomingly accomplishing any work. I can say that they did not lose much time in putting me right, and I have no hesitation in recommending them as a good, honest cure for lame back."

You can get Doan's Kidney Pills at your druggist's at 50 cents a box, or they will be sent postpaid on the receipt of price by postal note. Sole agents, Buffalo, N. Y.

STORMY SESSION.

Report of The International Socialist Congress in London.

LONDON, July 29.—When the International Socialist and Trades Union congress reassembled after lunch the members of the American section objected to the presence of a delegate from the New York Hack Owners' union on the ground that the latter belonged to the middle class. The delegate protested against this treatment, reminding the assemblage that he had come 3,500 miles to vote and claiming that the members of the New York Hack Owners union were workmen, as they drove their own cabs.

After further discussion it was decided, amid cheers, to admit this delegate, and the congress again adjourned amid disorder arising from the question whether Mrs. Jaures, Millerand and Vivian, the French Socialists, should be allowed to vote in the congress. Several of the delegates objected to their presence, declaring that the men mentioned did not represent the French peasantry and they were not properly accredited.

M. Jaures succeeded in making a speech, during which he tried to prove to the delegates that he was justified in voting and a vote in regard to his admission was about to be taken when there was another uproar and a French woman mounted a table and commenced a fiery harangue. Her remarks, however, were inaudible amid the general din caused by the series of repeated disputes which had arisen on all sides.

Finally Herr Singer, the chairman, after strenuous endeavors to restore order, adjourned the congress in disgust.

PERUVIAN CONGRESS.

Points In President Pirola's First Message—Republic Is Prosperous.

LIMA, Peru, July 29.—The Peruvian congress was opened and President Pirola sent in his first annual message. The president reports that the relations of Peru with foreign powers are friendly. The message announces that the republic is prosperous.

The president asks that the principals in the revolt at Yquitos, in the province of Loreto, which was led by Seminario, should be punished, and that amnesty should be granted to their accomplices. Law and liberty, he says, now prevail throughout the republic.

Juvenile Criminals.

COLUMBUS, O., July 29.—Warden Coffin interviewed a large number of juvenile convicts in the penitentiary with a view of learning something about their ages, crimes committed and other facts leading to their conviction. The object was to ascertain whether they would be good subjects for transfer to the Boys' Industrial school at Lancaster. The most interesting case was that of Richard Proctor, 16, who claims to have been left an orphan in New York. He will have $2,700 as soon as he becomes of age. He never attended school except in the prison.

Gold In Sight.

WASHINGTON, July 29.—The Boston banks came forward with an offer of $1,000,000 in gold coin to the treasury and Philadelphia also offered $300,000. If the department gets all in sight the balance will be raised to $112,000,000. The withdrawals were $209,800 in gold coin and $26,044 in bars, leaving the balance stand at $104,832,628.

Western Grain Rates.

CHICAGO, July 29.—The general managers of the western lines met here for the purpose of taking some action calculated to stiffen the grain rates, but they had poor success. While the meeting was in session it was announced that the Missouri Pacific had reduced the rates between the Missouri and Mississippi rivers to 4 cents.

Declared Constitutional.

CINCINNATI, July 29.—The circuit court Tuesday morning handed down an opinion holding that the waterworks bill was constitutional, reversing Judge Hollister's decision. It is likely that the persons who brought the suit to test the case will carry it to the supreme court.

Identified Her Assassin.

SALEM, O., July 29.—George Miller, the man who assaulted and robbed the apple woman, Mary Holvenstadt, was identified by the old lady at his hearing before Mayor Morrison at Lisbon, and was bound over to court in $1,000 bond, which he could not furnish.

Tailors' Strike Spreading.

NEW YORK, July 29.—Three thousand pants-makers have joined the tailors' strike, swelling the total number of hands now out to about 21,000. The children's jacket makers (socialists) sent word to the Brotherhood of Tailors that they would quit work.

Yellow Fever at Vera Cruz.

WASHINGTON, July 29.—A telegram from the United States consul at Vera Cruz announces yellow fever in that city. A report also has been received from Acapulco, Mex., announcing yellow fever also.

Rejected the Platform.

Boston, July 28.—The executive committee of the Young Men's Democratic club of Massachusetts met and adopted resolutions rejecting the platform. The free coinage of silver was denounced.

TO BE COMFORTABLE

During the Hot Season.

Persons who care to keep comfortable during the hot weather should look more particularly to their food and drink than to clothing. Use wheat or oatmeal for breakfast with a little fruit, bread and butter and a cup of hot Postum Cereal; this beverage is not coffee exactly, although it looks like the best of coffee. It is a liquid food made of grains and is highly nourishing.

Avoid iced drinks at meals, as the stomach depends upon heat very largely in its digestive operations and the ice cold drinks seriously interfere with the work. If one's stomach is kept right in hot weather it is much easier to keep comfortable and well. Hot nourishing drinks at meals are sensible, and Postum Cereal perfectly meets the want.

Beware of fraudulent imitations of the original Postum Cereal grain coffee. Insist on Postum.

Valuable Dog.

Some tribes of American Indians are said to be highly expert at feats of jugglery. Other tribes seem to be almost unacquainted with such tricks, if we are to credit a story said to have been told by a military officer at Fort Sill and reported by the Buffalo Express.

Professor McAllister, the magician, once visited a camp of River Crow on the Yellowstone, and after extracting various packs of cards and other articles from the ears, necks, noses and garments of the astonished Indians was invited to a big feast of roast dog and other delicacies.

Chief Two Belly was so impressed by the great medicine powers of the professor that he took him to his wigwam, introduced him to his daughter, Miss Wicista-Neeta (meaning wildcat) and offered her to him for a wife at the low price of two ponies.

The feast and daughter were both declined, but as McAllister was leaving the tepee he spied a lean, yellow cur. He asked Chief Two Belly how much he would take for the dog, at the same time stroking the brute down the back and each time taking a handful of money from the end of his tail.

"Him very valuable dog," said McAllister, picking a coin out of the dog's eye and another out of his nose. "Two ponies for him, chief."

The Indians, with eyes as big as saucers, stood in awe and astonishment and shook their heads. After McAllister had gone they carried the poor dog down to the river and cut him open, but the goose had no golden egg, and they went slowly back to camp as completely dumfounded and as solemn as human beings can possibly be.

Care of the Head.

While most people admit there is nothing better for the scalp than a thorough brushing of the hair morning and night, many will not persist in this and are constantly asking what will make the hair come in when it is fast coming out. Many of the best hairdressers and barbers are recommending rubbing pure grease in very thoroughly every night or every other night. In several instances this has proved very effectual, and a new growth of short and strong hair all over the head has been the result.

Many children and some of an older growth are severely troubled with dandruff in the scalp, which always makes the head and hair look dirty. This can be removed by rubbing pure grease in every other night, and in the morning following wash thoroughly with soap.—New York Ledger.

Doubtful About That Text.

An eminent preacher gave as his text, "As a man thinketh, so is he." After the sermon a lay brother said to the pastor:

"Your sermon was a scholarly effort, but I cannot agree with you in your premises."

"I am very sorry," replied the preacher. "I gave a great deal of thought and study to that sermon. To what part of it do you take exception?"

"Well," said the lay brother, "you say that as a man thinketh, so is he."

"Yes," replied the minister.

"Well, I have a nephew who thinks he knows it all, when the truth is he is a confounded idiot."—Shoe and Leather Reporter.

"Every Nervous Woman"

Says a great nerve doctor, "should devote half an hour every day to absolute rest. Her room should be darkened and orders given that she should not be disturbed. With closed eyes and relaxed muscles she should lie prostrate, hushing herself to all busy thoughts and cares."

This advice from an eminent physician is doubtless valuable and if acted upon would probably give temporary relief to a nervous woman. And yet the question remains, why is she nervous? Of course, it is because her nerves are weak and they have been overtaxed.

What she needs is a medicine which will enrich the impoverished blood and send it through the veins loaded with life-giving properties and with power to strengthen the nerves and build up the shattered system. This is exactly what Hood's Sarsaparilla does and this is why Hood's Sarsaparilla has won unequalled fame in the cure of nervous troubles. Hood's Sarsaparilla acts upon the blood. It enriches, vitalizes and purifies, and thus gives health and strength and vitality in place of nervousness, weakness and misery. This is not what we say; it is what Hood's Sarsaparilla does. Mrs. Lillie French, of Zeida, Ky., writing voluntarily to the proprietors of Hood's Sarsaparilla, says:

"I became nervous and had no energy whatever. My life seemed gloomy and hopeless. I read about Hood's Sarsaparilla and realized it was what I needed. I began taking it and now I have gained my natural weight and am doing my own housework."

SUSPICIOUS CUSTOMER.

Sale of a High Priced Diamond That Was Not Completed.

"Yes," smiled the good looking and well dressed clerk in a Washington jewelry store, "there are tricks in our trade as well as in others."

"I'm really surprised," responded the reporter, who had never bought more than $4 worth of jewelry—that is, fine jewelry—in his life. "How can there be?"

"In various ways, and one of those ways is the marking up of goods on display. Other lines of business draw trade by marking them up. For instance, we will put a jewel or some rich article on display which may be worth as much as $1,000 or $2,000, and we will mark it $10,000. That draws people somehow, for they do like to see big figures. As to paying that sort of a price, that is quite a different matter. People who are paying those big prices don't pay them until they know they are getting their money's worth as near as may be. They are painfully suspicious, too, and are constantly on the lookout not to be caught in any kind of trap.

"I remember some years ago I had charge of a jewelry store for the summer at a swell resort, and next door to us was another New York firm, whose reputation was not as good as our own, owing to the fact that they catered to the flash trade, while ours was quiet and swell. They had in their window a big diamond for display marked $1,500, and one day a rich woman whom I knew was attracted by it and wanted to get it for her husband.

"She was a sharp woman, notwithstanding she was rich, and she knew that she could get the stone for less money and proceeded to do it in the easiest way. This was to make a plump offer for it, and she went in and laid down $500 on the counter and said if they wanted to exchange the stone for the money now was the chance and that it must be done at once.

"The clerk hemmed and hawed awhile, but at last agreed to trade. He then took the stone down to the other end of the store behind the counter, stopping a moment to speak to the clerk, and came up to the lady on the outside of the counter with the stone in his hand. She looked at him suspiciously as he held the stone out to her and shook her head. 'I don't want it,' she said. 'I'm as sharp as you are, and I would have taken it if you had handed it to me across the counter, but I don't want it now.' That ended the trade, and the woman left.

"The lady told me this part of the story herself, and I felt sure that the clerk had done just what she suspected him of doing, and that he had changed the stone on his way around the counter. Later I saw one of the clerks and asked him about it. He was mad all over and was not choice of the epithets he applied to the clerk, who had really acted square in the matter and had only stopped to tell the other clerk of his good luck in making a $500 sale. The proprietor was hot, too, for, notwithstanding the price was $1,000 under what the diamond was marked, there was still a comfortable profit in it. As to the lady, she was beyond explanation, and to this day I presume that she thinks that jeweler tried to bunko her and did not simply because she was too sharp for him."—Washington Star.

Reassuring.

On one occasion when Webster was a senator and on his way to Washington he was compelled to take the night stage from Baltimore. It so fell out that he was the only passenger, and as he thought the driver had a sort of a highwayman look about him the senator felt ill at ease. However, like the small boy, he kept up his courage by whistling till they came to a dark woods near the dwelling grounds at Bladensburg, when he was accosted by the driver with "Where are you going?"

"To Washington," replied Webster as soon as he could recover his composure. "I am a senator and am going to my duties there."

Upon this the driver grasped him by the hand joyfully and exclaimed:

"How glad I am. I have been trembling in my seat for the last hour, for, to tell the truth, I did not like your looks and took you to be a highwayman."—Indianapolis Sun.

Some Fearful Moments.

During the late war between China and Japan we heard often of wonderful acts of bravery performed by the Japanese, but tales of Chinese bravery were few and far between. The following story, however, which appears to be told by an eyewitness, is enough to show that the Chinese had at least one officer who was no coward.

The deposed viceroy, Li Hung Chang, and the committee appointed by the government to investigate the reasons of defeat at the battle of Port Arthur met in the city of Peking. Among the charges was one of poor gunnery brought against Captain Le Chen Fue, who had commanded the Yen Tse Chang, one of the largest battleships that escaped from the action without great damage.

After Li Hung Chang had read the charges in full the accused captain rose and requested that a dozen shells be brought from his vessel. This was done, and the shells were set in a row before the committee.

Le Chen Fue then stepped forward, and drawing his sword said, "Can you wonder that we were defeated when our shells were like these?"

As he spoke and before any one could stop him he raised his sword and brought it down on the shell in front of him. The shell was split in two, and sawdust and red brick dust flew all about.

Then in rapid succession he struck shell after shell. Nobody moved, we were so surprised and frightened. I remember thinking that if the last one proved a good one there would be none of us left to tell the tale; but, no, that was like all the others—a sham.

As he finished Le Chen Fue laid his sword at the feet of Li Hung Chang, and as soon as that statesman could speak he dismissed the charges.

Mica Regions.

An interesting geological fact is that the wild and apparently worthless mountain region around Bakersville, western North Carolina, is the main source of mica supply for the United States. Mica mining is one of the greatest industries in North Carolina and has yielded fortunes to those engaged in it. Mica is found in all sorts of blocks of various thicknesses and shapes and can be split and resplit almost ad infinitum, or until it becomes the thin, transparent, flexible wafer of commerce. The material is by nature imbedded in or scattered through the felspar in masses large or small, close together or far apart, and is blasted from the rocks by means of dynamite, the pure veins being found between walls of slate. From the mines it is taken to the shops, where it is split into thin sheets, trimmed into regular forms and made ready for the market, the price varying with the size and color of the sheets. The average size is about 4 by 6, though rare sheets of 24 by 18 inches are sometimes found. Occasionally a mine is found where the mica is too much scattered in the bedrock to make its operation profitable, but it is said that the expert mountaineer can determine its value by the indications.

Some time ago the one-year-old child of Mr. M. E. Lindsey, of Franklin Forks, Pa., had a very severe attack of colic. She suffered great pain. Mr. Lindsey gave her a dose of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy and in ten minutes her distress was gone. This is the best medicine in the world for children when troubled with colic or diarrhoea. It never fails to effect a prompt cure. When reduced with water and sweetened it is pleasant for them to take. It should be kept in every home, especially during the summer months. PYTHIAN KNIGHTS

Will Be Strongly in Evidence in Cleveland Next Week.

GRAND LODGE SESSION

And Encampment of the Uniformed Rank of this Popular Order—Walter
B. Riche, of this City,

Lima always furnishes her quota of prominent men in the various political and secret society gatherings held throughout the country. In reference to the coming convocation of Knights of Pythias to be held in Cleveland in the month of August, the press syndicate correspondence says:

Cleveland is to be the scene of the largest gathering of pythians ever known in the history of their organization. The convocation of the supreme lodge and the encampment of the uniformed rank of the Knights of Pythias

SEPTIMUS CHANCELLOR, WALTER B. RICHE, will open Monday, Aug. 25, and will continue through the week. It is expected that fully 20,000 members from the states and as many as 150,000 visitors will be there.

The chief feature of the encampment will be the parades and drills. The regiments of the uniformed rank will encamp under a small city of snowy tents. The camp has been named Perry Pythia in honor of the heroic commander of the Lake Erie fleet and the donor of the camp site, ex Senator H. B. Payne. The Pythians will turn out in the full glory of their brilliant uniforms and the parade will be made attractive by an elaborate series of floats representing the story of Damon and Pythias, which gave the inspiration for the origin of the order.

There are half a million members of the organization in this country but the membership is greatest in Ohio, Pennsylvania, New York, Indiana and Michigan. The order is divided into three departments, the civic, the military and the judicial. The supreme lodge, which is at the head of the civic department, corresponds to congress. The military order is an organized rank, the only organization of the kind ever perfected in congress. It is subject to call for military duty in time of war. It is organized on the same principle as the army, into regiments and brigades and the official body is the supreme council, formed of brigadier generals and adjutant general. The judicial branch consists of grand or domestic tribunals and supreme tribunals. The order was founded Feb. 18, 1842, at Washington by Justus H. Rathbone and has enjoyed a wonderful growth.

Hon. Walter B. Riche of Lima, O., the supreme chancellor has been for many years one of the most eminent members of the order. He is a prominent lawyer and is a political leader of no little prominence.

C. Wolf, a yard switchman for the C. H. & D., met with a painful but not serious accident yesterday afternoon about 4 o'clock, while at work in the North Lima yards. He attempted to jump a moving car when his foot slipped from the stirrup and struck the rail. The car wheel ran over his shoe and crushed the end of his big toe. Dr. Kahle was called and dressed the wound. He found the flesh only bruised, the bone was not injured. Bu-bey's back was called and took him to his home.

After meals you should have simply a feeling of comfort and satisfaction. You should not feel any special indications that digestion is going on. If you do, you have indigestion, which means not-digestion. This may be the beginning of so many dangerous diseases, that it is best to take it in hand at once and treat it with Shaker Digestive Cordial. For you know that indigestion makes poison, which causes pain and sickness. And that Shaker Digestive Cordial helps digestion and cures indigestion. Shaker Digestive Cordial does this by providing the digestive materials in which the sick stomach is wanting. It also tones up and strengthens the digestive organs and makes them perfectly healthy. This is the rationale of its method of cure, as the doctors would say. Sold by druggists, price 10 cents to $1.00 per bottle.

A LIMA BOY.

three or four years ago but never became a rider of much note until last year, when he joined the National Circuit together with Sims and Macdonald as the Columbus team. He was the best rider on the circuit and won fame with his countless victories, being declared the champion of class B, which then existed. Cooper did not join the circuit until late in the season, and until that time he was very infrequently defeated for first place. After Cooper joined the circuit, Bald had many a hard fight for first place and was several times defeated by the Detroit boy.

TOM COOPER

The reappearance here of Tom Cooper, the bright particular star of the season of '96, is a feature of the meet at the fair grounds. Cooper is a strong local favorite, and it is interesting to recall that it was in this city that Cooper made his last appearance in a class A race, just prior to crossing the line Cooper's record since leaving the ranks of the "pures" is a matter of history, making his first bold leap into fame at Battle Creek, Mich., on July 22d of last year by defeating Eddie Bald in the only open race of the day. His progress up the ladder of fame was thenceforward rapid. In fact, it is doubtful if the entire history of cycle racing furnishes a parallel for the career of the young Detroit. He became famous almost in a day. At the Minneapolis and Marinette meet, held early last August, he scored four successive victories over Eddie Bald, the former king of class B, and proceeding thence on the circuit won eighteen straight victories in but little more than two weeks, a record that stands as unexcelled, never, indeed, having been equalled save in one instance by ex champion Zimmerman. This remarkable feat made the Detroit lad famous, and he showed that it was no sporadic spurt by keeping up his brilliant work to the very close of the season. At the end of the year there was much discussion as to whether Cooper or Bald had won the years championship, both having won about an equal number of victories, but inasmuch as Cooper's victories had been won in about seven weeks' less time than those of the Buffalo lad, the latter having started on the circuit that length of time ahead of his rival, many racing authorities awarded the palm to Cooper. This year Cooper has been practically invincible. He opened his season at Cincinnati, May 4, winning two brilliant victories from Arthur Gardiner and a big field. At the same place, May 16, he won three more victories, Otto Ziegler this time being his principal opponent. At Waltham, May 23, he captured the leading race of the day, and at Buffalo, on Decoration Day, he crossed the tape first in both of the races in which he competed. On June 6, at Fredonia, he met his erstwhile rival, Bald, for the first time this year, and administered two decisive defeats to the Buffalo boy. At Rochester, June 9, he repeated the dose in the two open races of the day and at Utica the pair broke even, Bald winning by a narrow margin on the first day, only to suffer defeat on the second day at the hands of the Detroit wonder. Thence coming west Cooper joined the National Circuit at Peoria, winning four out of the five races in which he started. At Galesburg, June 30, he won two more victories; and at Chicago, July 3 and 4, he made a clean sweep, winning five races and carrying away near $1,000 in prizes as a result.

After the Chicago meet Cooper took a rest, joining the circuit again at Battle Creek, July 13th. In the half mile open of the first day's racing at that point he lost to Bald by a fluke, Parker, who was in front of Cooper on the back stretch, breaking his chain at the beginning of the sprint forcing Cooper to run so high on the back that he could only finish second. The next day, however, he showed himself the superior of Bald by beating him by over three lengths in one of the finest-fought contests ever seen on the track. The Kalamazoo board track is wholly unsuited to Cooper's style of riding, and he dropped a couple of races there on the 16th and 16th; but at Detroit, on the 18th, he again came to the front, easily winning the mile open, with Bald no better than third. From Detroit Cooper went to Toronto for his big match race with Wallie Sanger, which was held last Tuesday evening. The match resulted in one of Cooper's most brilliant victories, he being the winner in straight heats, capturing the first heat in 1:58 2-5 and the second heat in 1:58 3-5—unprecedented time for a race of that character.

Cooper's record for the entire season stands at 27 firsts and 6 seconds out of 33 races ridden—by far the best showing of any racing man in America. He has beaten Bald in races out of 11, Sanger in 12 out of 14, and all other racing men in every race in which he has met them. He leads the national circuit percentage table with the phenomenal standing of 977, and is without doubt the champion of America.

Cooper is the star of the Monarch team, of which the other member the noted Pickie B is, is now on the Illinois circuit. "Mother" Webb, for many years in charge of Harry Tyler, is handling Cooper this year, and no more able trainer can be found on the circuit. Cooper is also accompanied by Louis G. Quackenbush, formerly manager of E. C. Stearns & Co's racing department, who is now looking after the Detroit lad's press interests.

The entire Morgan & Wright team of seven racing men, under the personal charge of Will C. Pelot is here with the intention of taking part in the professional races. This is the largest team that has followed the national circuit, and the claim is made for it that each of the riders is a world's record holder. The racing men are Arthur Gardiner, of Chicago, Otto Ziegler, the "Little California Demon," of San Jose, Pat O'Connor, of Louisville, Ky., Harry C. Clarke, of Denver, Col.; S. C. Cox, of New York City; O. L. Stevens, of Ottumwa, Ia.; Owen S. Kimble, of Louisville, Ky., and W. T. House, of West Point, Ind. All of them are professional riders. The trainers who accompany the party, John West, of Chicago, Ed Moulton, of Minneapolis, B. P. Aylward, of San Francisco, W. P. Stanton, of Denver, and W. W. Reedy, of Ottumwa, Ill., are old timers in athletics and well known in the racing game. This team has been remarkably successful so far on the circuit, and may be expected to add interest to the meet here. It is known among racing men as the "Good Tire" team.

ARTHUR GARDINER

The speediest youngster that has ever been developed in Chicago, the home of racing men, is Arthur Gardiner, who flashed from obscurity into fame in the Decoration Day race of 1894. He rode as an amateur during the balance of that year, but in the following spring entered class B and took issue with the crack-jacks for the rest of the season of 1895. His remarkable success on the track is a matter of history in the racing game, and Gardiner is regarded amongst his followers as a man with few equals and no superiors. During the racing record season last fall Gardiner placed the mile record at 1:42 2-5, and was the first man in the world to cut the five mile record below the ten minute mark. He is showing increased speed this year, and has already won his spurs and some little cash in the professional class. Gardiner did his first riding for Morgan & Wright, and has been a member of the famous "Good Tire" team throughout his racing career.

OTTO ZIEGLER

In the fall of 1894 a little cherry-faced Californian went to the national meet at Denver, competed against Johnson and Sanger and Bald, and went away with three firsts, a second and a third out of the five national championships up his sleeve. This was Otto Ziegler, the "Little Demon" of San Jose, and his sensational victories over the fastest men of America won for him a lasting renown. During the season of 1895 he came East and joined the Morgan & Wright team, with which he was considered one of the most consistent winners of the circuit until the time he received his broken arm at South Bend, Ind. in August. He recovered from this accident in time to join the record breaking camp at Louisville. Here he secured a number of world's records, the most important of which was his competition mark of 1:52 3-5. Ziegler has improved under training this season, and is looked upon as well-nigh invincible in short distance work.

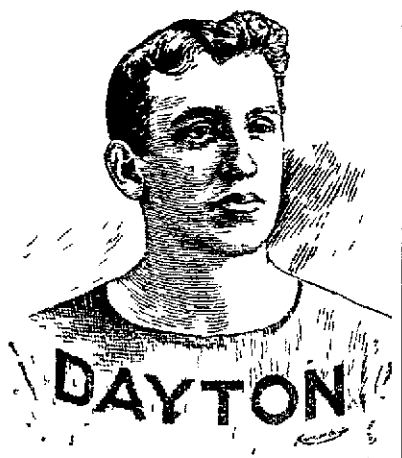

Every follower of the racing game knows Pat O'Connor, the big, jolly Irish man of the circuit. For three years O'Connor was the right hand man of Johnnie Johnson, and it was he who assisted the little champion of the track. As captain of the quad pacing machine he has helped to break more records than any man in the world. His connection with the "Good Tire" team came from last fall while he was at their camp at Louisville. He is anxious this year to make a few records on his own account, and has been put on a single wheel with an idea of proving his value in competition. He is the largest man of the team, a strong unspaced rider, and may be expected to show up well in handicaps and at long distance work.

JOE GRIEBLER

This is a good picture of Joe Griebler, who is rapidly making a name for himself among the big professionals on the National Circuit bicycle races. Griebler comes from Minnesota, where he was very successful as an amateur during 1895, and on joining the professional ranks he became prominent by winning a big six day race at Minneapolis in May, riding 135 miles 7 laps on an 8 lap board track, in six hours' time. During this race he broke the world's record for one hour, making 23 miles, as well as the 10 and 20 mile board track records. He made his appearance among the big professionals at Peoria, where he rode among the fastest men in the country, winning three firsts and finishing third and fourth in two other events. He rode second to Tom Cooper in the mile open at Chicago, July 4th, with such men as Gardiner and Ziegler following him across the tape. A few days later he finished first in a mile handicap at Appleton, Wis., in the time, 2:04 1-5, being nearly 14 seconds faster than the world's handicap record. He ranks tenth in percentage of winnings on the National Circuit, and is next to Sanger on points and value of prizes won. Before Bald joined the "circuit chasers," and while Sanger was crippled from his fall, it is said that Cooper feared Griebler more than any other competitor in the field.

Master Lee Richardson, the premier fancy and trick rider is without the slightest shade of doubt the most graceful and pleasing rider that ever mounted a bicycle.

Master Richardson follows the lead of no other trick rider, but is the originator of scores of difficult feats. In his trick riding he is A French Newspaper in London, 1676.

In no history of British journalism or account of William Dugard do I find any mention of his publishing in London a weekly French newspaper entitled Nouvelles Ordinaires de Londres, yet this is surely the most singular incident in his checkered career. The National Library at Paris possesses two quarto volumes of this newspaper, extending from July 11, 1650, to Jan. 14, 1658. These were presented to the Minim monastery, Place Royale, which in 1644, shortly after its foundation, had a library of 6,000 volumes, one of the best in Paris. By 1790, when it was dispersed, it had increased to 17,000 volumes. The two quartos were, with many other books, the gift of a Parisian named Descombes, of whom nothing is known. They found their way at the revolution into the library of the tribune, a body which was abolished in 1807, and they then passed to the Imperial (now National) library.

Descombes was apparently a subscriber to Dugard's paper and had it bound in 200 numbers at a time. It would be interesting to know how a London newspaper they reached foreign subscribers, for it must be presumed that most of these subscribers were foreigners, though the paper was sold by Nicolas Bourne at the South Gate, Old Change; Francis Tytton, at the Three Daggers, near Temple Gate, and Mary Constable, at the Key, Westminster hall. Its four pages contain mostly English news, but there are short paragraphs of continental events. —Notes and Queries.

YOUTHS' DEPARTMENT.

An Interesting Talk About Sea Anemones. The Rose and the Bee—How to Make Soap Bubbles.

If you have ever had the opportunity of looking into one of the pools which the sea leaves among the rocks when the tide goes out you have noticed some strange and interesting creatures, and among these the sea anemone. If so, I am sure that you admired them very much. They are just like flowers growing in the sea. Some of them are like dahlias and others like chrysanthemums, and when they are opened they are of all sorts of beautiful colors.

But sea anemones are not always open. Very often they close themselves tightly up, and then they only look like lumps of brown or dark green jelly. But before long they are sure to open again and wave their feelers to and fro as before.

You would hardly think that these feelers were weapons, would you? But they are, and very deadly weapons, too, to many of the smaller creatures which live in the pool. For each of them is closely set with tiny oval cells, in every one of which a poisoned dart is rightly coiled up; and as soon as any small animal swims up against them the darts spring out, and before long the poor creature is dead.

This is the way in which sea anemones always catch their prey, and some of them will capture and kill prawns and crabs and even small fishes.

As soon as a victim is seized all the feelers—or tentacles, as they are called—bend down and slowly press into the body. Then for 24 hours or so the anemone remains closed, but at the end of that time it spreads its tentacles again. You need not be afraid of touching a sea anemone if you should happen to find one; for, although it can kill the small creatures on which it feeds, its poison is not strong enough to hurt a human being.

The Bee That Tiaried Too Long.

There was a bee in a garden bower
There was a rose in a hive
Who buzzed about for an idle hour
Then cried: "I'll call on the fragrant flower!"

While the fragrant flower's alive.

"I'll tarry a spell to the this lace,
"I'll tarry a spell to find
My new little honey's hiding place!"
("Tis just the shape to suit my face,
So I can't leave that behind.")

He searched each cell with wondrous care
He pulled his belt of jet,
The bee flew forth with a lady air,
But soon came back in cold despair,
For the summer sun had set.

"I'll go tomorrow," he sadly said,
"I'll tarry too long, I fear,
For had I set out at once instead
Of wasting time till day was dead,
The honey would now be here."

All night long in his insect dream
He heard the wind whist blow,
He shuddered at every angry scream,
For he dreamt the wind must crawl and
Where his garden rose did grow.

He woke in dread, as we sometimes do,
And greeted the golden dawn,
He sought the bower where the fair rose grew.

Alas! the poor bee's dream was true,
For the fragrant rose was gone.

A Little Queen's Dress.

Children abroad are never overdressed, a white gown and a neat, plain suit being regarded as sufficient even on occasions of ceremony for girl and boy until old enough to enter society, says Table Talk. In evidence of this is a pretty story of the little Wilhelmina, queen of Holland, on her recent visit to Queen Victoria. A drawing room was held, but because of her extreme youth she was not allowed to be present, her mother, the queen regent, representing her. The youthful sovereign was much interested in the English court and very anxious to witness its ceremony and splendor, and by the indulgence and planning of Victoria this was accomplished. We are told that "in a simple white gown the future queen of the Netherlands sat in a distant window, herself unseen, but beholding with shining eyes and clasped hands the wonderful pageant of beauty, magnificent toilets, plumes and jewels as it passed before her.

Big, Strong Soap Bubbles.

To make soap bubbles that will be larger in size and have greater power than those made with ordinary soap and water procure at the druggist's 2 draughts of white or mottled castile soap and put it with 2 ounces of water in a bottle holding three or four times the quantity of the solution. When the soap is perfectly dissolved, add an ounce of glycerin and shake well every two or three hours all day. Then let it stand for 24 hours, when it will be ready for use. The water and glycerin can be measured carefully, 8 teaspoonfuls making an ounce. A thin glass pipe will give better results than a clay pipe, but if the latter is used it should have as long a stem as possible, and after using it for a time it will work better than at first, says the New York Journal.

A Monkey With Good Sense.

An interesting story is told of a pet monkey which answers to the name of Jocko. The children of the house and Jocko are boon companions, and of a summer afternoon often enjoy a frolic together upon the lawn. One day some one threw a match down and the grass caught fire, making a little blaze. Jocko saw it, stopped and looked, then glanced round, and, seeing a piece of plank not far off, he ran for it, crept cautiously to the fire, all the time holding the plank as a shield between himself and the flame, then he threw the plank on the fire and pressed it down and put it out. What child could have reasoned better or done more?

The Little New Brother.

Tommy had been boasting about his new brother.
"How old is he, Tom?" asked the policeman.
"Two weeks," said Tom.
"He's very small, isn't he?"
"Yes," said Tom, "he's pretty small—that is, all except his voice."

DON'T SKIM MILK.

And, a Doctor Says, the Children Will Be Much Healthier.

Not long since I read an able and interesting article from a standard M. D. that was certainly very flattering to my grandmother's good sense in her use of cream, advocating it in the place of butter, on the ground of greater healthfulness, less labor, and economy.

This should be borne in mind by the mothers who "blow back the cream" when getting the milk for the table—especially by the mothers who pride themselves on making all the butter that is used for the table and who do it at the expense of poor milk for table use, much work and little profit.

Don't let us skim and skim the milk from that one cow on which the family depend for their daily supply, hoarding every globule of cream as though it would be wasted unless turned into butter. Have you ever calculated how much butter a pitcher of cream would make, and how much labor also in the skimming, preserving, churning, rinsing, salting, working, "working over" and packing down? From the ordinary cream pitcherful not enough for an individual butter pat, but in its natural state it would supply a family of three or four for a generous meal of cereals with pudding and berries.

Children usually prefer cream on their bread and potatoes rather than butter or gravy, and as the M. D. has said, how much more healthful and economical it would prove to be. The point of economy ought to be emphasized, because to many mothers it will prove the most potent in inducing them to make the change, for some can set before their families the most indigestible and laborious compounds, without tremor of conscience, who would feel that they had committed an unpardonable sin had they lacked in the matter of economy.

Whenever I hear a mother bragging of the quarts of milk she sells (from one cow), of the cream she furnishes to a small boarding house, or of her "butter exchange," etc., I know that she is robbing her family and making indigestion and doctor's bills.

Such a one warns over her potatoes in milk of an ethereal hue, with possibly a few molecules of butter as a bait, or, this proving unpalatable, even to throwing away, fries them in lard or drippings. She makes biscuit of baking powder, lard, skim milk or water, instead of thick sour cream. She gives her family milk most zealously skimmed for tea and coffee, fruit and cereal puddings, principally because she felt that she must be and thought that she was economical.

But back of all this is the mother's ignorance of the economy and the "chemistry" of food and the true relation of food to the human body. Because she cannot see how a lard soaked doughnut could make a "strike" in the "internal workshop," she believes it does not and lays all the ills of the family to the weather or Providence. —Philadelphia Press.

Auroras in the Arctic Regions.

The light was lessening day by day, though the beauty of this ice world did not wane. I think I never felt the strength, the glory, of silence so vividly as on the 26th of the month, standing on a rocky height above the bay. Across the heavens beautiful auroras streamed at frequent intervals in colors of faint orange, green and blue, scarcely dimming the myriads of brilliant stars that glittered in the deep blue vault, which lightened to turquoise at the horizon. Majestic cliffs swept away across the bay, with its shadowy greenish blue bays, all bathed in one shimmering veil of transparent gold from the light of the moon. In a silence that made the beating of the heart and the pulsation of the blood in the veins seem almost audible I was suddenly attracted by a peculiar, occasional crackling sound. Presently the sound came very near, and turning I perceived a yellowish white object, about 3 feet in length, steadily approaching, the little creature gradually circled about, until it paused 15 feet away. As I had remained motionless, its curiosity led it to sit down upon its haunches and deliberately stare at me. Twice it started itself, and then, running behind a boulder, peeped over the edge, until, satisfied or alarmed, it disappeared. It was an arctic fox. —Frank Wilbert Stokes in Century.

Suddenly Aroused Interest.

"Sir," said the citizen, "the car I rode home on last night was so crowded that people, myself among them, had to hang on by their eyelids, so to speak."

The street railway magnate went on writing.

"So crowded, in fact, that the conductor was unable to collect all the fares."

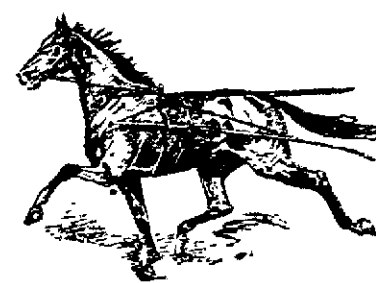

The magnate's pen dropped to the floor. "What was the number of that car?" he asked eagerly. —Indianapolis Journal.

TROTTER AND THOROUGHBRED.

Different Appearance of the Two When They Are in Action.

The thoroughbred or running horse has always been in favor in this country, in Kentucky, where the annual fairs have been a great attraction for half a century on account of the races. But in other parts of the republic the trotter has until recent years held the leading share of public attention. The trotting racer is driven to a sulky; the thoroughbred runs under the saddle. The first picture shows a trotter in full speed.

The trotting horse is especially a product of America, although the famous trotting families can all be traced back to thoroughbred ancestry. While the trotter was being developed to his highest point of efficiency in America, Europeans still clung to their running horses. Later, however, many fine American trotters have been imported into European countries, notably into Germany and Austria. Americans have for many years bred the trotter for speed only, regardless of other qualities. The result was a horse too light and thin to be of use for anything but racing. Consequently we have had to send to Europe for Cleveland bays, for hackneys and for French and German coaches to improve our stock of carriage horses.

The fastest mile ever trotted was made by Alix in 1894. Time, 2:08 3/4. While the American trotter is coming into favor in Europe, the running horse, commonly called the thoroughbred, is growing in popularity in America.

THOROUGHBRED.

Running races excite now with us as much of a furore as they do in Europe.

The second picture illustrates the foot motion of the thoroughbred running his best clip. The fastest running time ever made was at New York, by the American horse Salvator, Aug. 28, 1890, on a straight track. The mile was run in 1:35 1/2. Salvator was 4 years old at the time and carried 110 pounds.

SADDLE HORSES AT FAIRS.

Training Them and Showing Off Their Points to Good Advantage.

The Breeder's Gazette held a symposium on the subject of training saddle horses for the show ring and showing off their gaits in the most taking way while in the ring. Various breeders and trainers gave directions.

J. W. Brooks, Jr., says: In regard to the handling of a gaited saddle in the show ring I would simply say that, in the first place, the horse should have show qualities, such as size, style, flashy gaits, carriage and form, and be quick and handy in changing his gaits. Secondly, the rider should be master of the art of riding gaited horses. This is an education that takes time to accomplish. The horse should be on edge at the time he is shown.

L. B. Smith gives directions as follows: Educated and trained animals will, if special care is neglected, become rusty and slow in the performance of their different gaits and careless or indifferent in regard to their manners. In order to be successful in the show ring every step must be taken in a bold, prompt manner, every duty performed with a willing, cheerful spirit displayed. These kind, attractive and obedient manners and ways will go a long way in the interests of victory and a first prize.

The amateur showman must first compel his horse to stand in an elegant and graceful manner in a commanding and attractive way and perfectly still—the horse appearing to do this of his own free will and choice. I would suggest the proper place to rub up your horse in this line is the side of a barn or building where you can be mounted and see the shadow cast on the building.

Next will come the performance of the different gaits, viz.:

1. Flat footed walk.
2. Slow pace.
3. Running walk or fox trot.
4. Canter.
5. Bold, fast, square trot.
6. Bold, fast rack or single foot.

Teach your horse to turn with rapidity and ease. The above gaits, or as many as an animal has of them, must be performed in an elegant, graceful, prompt and bold manner, with all speed and ease possible. If necessary sacrifice a little speed for grace and elegance. The animal should be so entirely under the control and direction of his rider that the changes from one gait to another will be made so readily and easily that the action will appear to be prompted by the animal's knowledge of his surroundings and not from any visible motions of his rider. Thus you will exhibit an animal in touch with his mission and in perfect obedience and sympathy with his rider. Demonstrate the fact to the judges that he is a horse of perfect manners and finished education. Let your treatment of your horse always be kind, yet positive.

The distinguished Kentucky saddle horse breeder Colonel John B. Castleman writes:

I beg to remind you that all exercise, while governed by a general fixed rule, is nevertheless individual. One often hears the expression "he is a good whip," and a "good rider" or "a good athlete" and so on. In each instance a general governing principle applies, and he is expert in any case just in so far as the application of that principle is coupled with intelligent enforcement, and such intelligent enforcement is a question of individuality. So it is that one who is careless will destroy the best qualities of the roadster or the easy balance of the riding horse. Yet it seems to be assumed that by some unchangeable law the following of a mere rule can conduct the gaited horse through errors of the rider which would destroy the better qualities of the horse not gaited. Any cue, two or more cues will be disarranged by bad riding, as the trot will be ruined by bad driving. The exercise of good judgment in any case is necessary. Riding and driving are the result of experience. The peculiarities of the horse and the methods of the horseman are quickly indicated by suggestion.

A simple vocabulary of a few words will be readily learned by most animals. A few persistently used signs or touch of the rein are easily understood by the horse. Let the rider first know how to ride and let him study the capabilities of his horse. Let him know how the horse may walk, canter, trot, rack and what simple signs are necessary to change from one to the other. Let him sit comfortably on his horse, and the interchange between the rider and the horse becomes complete. I often ride my mare Dorothy five perfect and distinct gaits in 120 feet without any apparent sign, but Dorothy and I understand each other and a known intimation from the rider is instantly obeyed by the horse.

Live Stock Points.

It is the custom with some farmers to turn sheep into cornfields to graze after the corn is formed. This should not be done, however, till the corn is well up out of the sheep's way. The stalks will be tall enough just after the grains are grazed. The animals will eat off the lower blades of the corn as well as the weeds and grass along the corn rows. If you should thus pasture your sheep in the cornfield for awhile, turn them out of the field at night to keep them out of mischief. In the morning let them in again, when they will be sufficiently hungry to eat what is nearest them without troubling themselves to reach up and pull down the stalks.

Begin to get an animal ready for the show yard before it is born.

It will pay to have show yard animals well groomed. Have them well washed and brushed and have also all scraggly, superfluous hair trimmed off.

A few thorough experts as judges at fairs are much better than a large number who do not know their business.

It takes a long time to evolve an improved breed of animals from a cross, but do not be discouraged. It takes a long time to do anything well.

FUNERAL SERVICES

Of the Infant Child of Mr. E. E. Pyle, Buried in Ward Cemetery.

The funeral services of the three-months-old child of E. E. Pyle were held this morning. Interment was made in Ward cemetery in Bath township, near the early home of the child's mother, and where she is buried. The circumstances surrounding Mr. Pyle's bereavement are particularly sad. Three months ago his wife, a daughter of Stephen Greer, of Bath township died. The baby was taken by Mr. Pyle's brother to his home in Montpelier, Ind., where it died Monday after a short illness. In his double bereavement Mr. Pyle has the sympathy of many friends.

"Toddy" Cowles Wins the Twenty Mile Road Race.

WORLD'S RECORD BROKEN.

By LeFevre, of Dayton, Who Wins First Time—Gru. Woods Wins Allen County Time—National Circuit Meet This Afternoon.

With the twenty mile road race this morning and the great national circuit meet at the fair grounds this afternoon, this was a day of cycling such as was never witnessed in Lima before.

The attendance was not as large as it would have been Saturday could the races have been pulled off on that day, but the local race promoters will not complain. The road race was a complete success and the national circuit meet this afternoon can not but conclude with the same decision from the spectators.

Before 10 o'clock, the hour for starting the road race, the streets were lined with people anxious to see the racing men start and finish. There were 92 entries for the road race but only 51 riders started and of these 37 were recorded at the tape on the finish. "Toddy" Cowles, a prominent young man of this city, walked off with first honor, winning first place by starting 30 seconds behind the limit men and riding the course in 1 hour and 35 seconds. He came in covered with mud, but still riding at a terrible pace, and seemed almost as fresh as when he started. He was closely followed by Joseph Turner, of Dayton, and S. R. Miller, of Columbus Grove, who finished second and third respectively.

The first time prize was won by E. L. LeFevre, of Dayton, who won both first time and first place in the road race last year. He started from the scratch with Winifred Runyan, of Marion, Ind., who won first place here two years ago, and W. S. Furman, of Oron, who won first time here two years ago. The three scratch men rode together over the entire course, then sprinted two or three blocks for the tape. LeFevre led at the tape, with Runyan second and Furman next. LeFevre covered the 20 miles in 54 minutes and 45 seconds, making his own record of last year, 58:56, also the world's 20 mile record. Runyan won second time by covering the distance in 54:49. Furman was but one second later in crossing the tape. The three scratch men finished in 31st, 32d and 33d place respectively as named above.

George Wood, another of Lima's best riders, made a remarkable ride, starting five minutes behind the limit and finishing in 5th place. He rode the course in 56:39. He is the winner of the Allen county time prize, besides the 5th place prize.

The roads were in any condition other than for record breaking. In some places, for short distances, the course was good. Then again the riders would be compelled to pull clear off to the grass at the sides of the road in order to escape deep mud holes. In many places the mud puddles were so close together that it was impossible to do rapid riding. It is a wonder that so few are injured. Many of the riders were thrown on account of their wheels slipping in the mud. The Allentown and Enda roads seemed to have been the worst part of the entire course, a heavy rain having fallen in that territory last night. Frauenfelder's turn was in good condition, and this time was the scene of no accident.

W. E. Larcorn, of Springfield, punctured his tire when about three miles from town, and mounted Henry Hauenstein's wheel. This was punctured just after Frauenfelder's turn was passed, and he turned and came back.

S. R. Miller, of Columbus Grove, who finished third met with considerable injury. Just after crossing the tape, his wheel struck a large brown dog that attempted to cross the street. Miller was thrown onto his face, and as he fell, Allen, of Lima, struck him in the side with his wheel. Miller was taken to the Normandie and cared for by Dr. Kahle. His chin was cut and bruised and it required two stitches to draw together the torn flesh. His shoulder, knees and left leg were badly skinned and bruised. His injuries are not serious.

Harry Armstrong, of this city, ran into a mud hole and was thrown from his wheel. He was following Cowles closely and was in a good position when he fell.

The first thirty-seven riders finished in the following order:

1. C. C. Cowles, Lima, O.
2. Joseph Turner, Dayton, O.
3. S. R. Miller, Columbus Grove, O.
4. C. C. Allen, Lima, O.
5. G. P. Wood, Lima, O.

10. Geo. T. Stream, Norman, O.

EXCELLENT BALL.

Great Turnout of Spectators to Witness the Game Between

OTTAWA AND WAPAKONETA.

Faurot's Park the Scene Yesterday of One of the Best Ball Games Ever Played in Lima. The People Went Wild With Excitement.

Those who went to the ball park yesterday afternoon saw one of the best played ball games ever seen on the Lima grounds. From the throw of the first ball over the plate until the last mar was called out, the game was uncertain, and the contest was a thorough and stubborn one. As it now stands, Wapakoneta has won twice from Ottawa by scores of 11 to 10 and 4 to 3. Ottawa has won as many from Wapakoneta, the scores standing 15 to 2 and 9 to 5. The third game was played at Wapakoneta, and the Ottawa boys claimed unfairness on the part of the umpire and many spectators who interfered with the players. Neutral grounds were desired for another contest, and Lima was selected. The boys gave a splendid exhibition and surprised many by their excellent playing. One could not desire a more exciting game than was yesterday's. Even the Limaites present could not refrain from taking sides and doing considerable shouting. The Wapakoneta crowd numbered one hundred and twenty-five people, a majority of whom were supplied with tin horns, which they used loud and often. Ottawa was not so well represented, but the crowd of about sixty from that town made all the noise they possibly could. The attendance was large, and the spectators encouraged as best they knew how the team they desired to see win. The number present was estimated at one thousand.

Should the same teams again play this city they will draw an immense crowd. The visitors expressed themselves as pleased with the treatment accorded them by Lima people.

But three errors were made yesterday, Ottawa making two and Wapakoneta one. Ottawa's third baseman, a grouchy player whom the management released after the game, was responsible for two of them. Another player was dismissed and the club claim they have two untended players to fill their places. Wapakoneta's first went to the bat and in that inning earned one run. Ottawa failed to make a tour of the bases.

In the second inning Wapakoneta scored one more and Ottawa did the same. Herst hit safe, got second and third on two sacrifice hits and scored on Witham's single. In the third inning Greese passed the rubber, scoring one for Wapak, and Shiffer landed as many for Ottawa. The score remained three to two until the eighth inning, when Wapakoneta scored one more. In the last inning Ottawa played as if her life was at stake and succeeded in bringing home one man, and two men left on bases. The last man came to the bat, made a desperate effort to bring them home but went out on a fly. Had the third baseman for Ottawa played the game he could have played, and had the catcher for Wapakoneta been wise in the last inning the score for the nine innings would have been two to two. This is what all Lima desired. It looked at one time as if the score would be a tie. It was then the crowd went wild and every man on the grounds was yelling for one of the two teams. It was the universal opinion of those attending the game that they would like to see the two teams play here again in the near future. This is the score:

Ottawa, 0 1 1 0 0 0 1 3

Batteries: Ewing and Lawrence; B. Smith and Heist. Hits: Ottawa 8, Wapak 7; Errors: Wapak 4, Ottawa 2; Struck out by Ewing 1, by Smith 4; base on balls off Ewing 2, off Smith 1, passed balls, Lawrence 2; earned runs, Wapak 2, Ottawa 2. Mr. Kibler, from Buffon, umpired the game and all his decisions were impartial. His manner of umpiring pleased all who attended the game.

The Catholic Knights of Ohio will hold their fifth annual State convention in Lima on September the eighth and ninth. The local branch, number twenty three, will have charge of the convention and have issued the following invitations to the other branches of the order.

The members of St. Patrick's Branch No. 24, embrace the opportunity to extend to the delegates and members of your society their most cordial invitation to attend this convention, which promises to be the largest gathering of Catholics and Knights ever witnessed in this part of the State. We would be glad, indeed to welcome all the members of your Branch in our city on this occasion, and assure you that we shall make your stay here as pleasant as we possibly can and know how.

Three prizes of $25, $15 and $10, respectively, will be given the Branch having the first, second and third highest number of members in the public parade, which will take place immediately after solemn high mass, Tuesday, September 8th.

The sessions will be held in Faurot's Music Hall, corner Main and High streets, where the delegates and visiting members will assemble at 8 m., September 8th, and then proceed to St. Rose's church, to attend solemn high mass, in a body at 10 a. m.

The Catholic Knights of Ohio is a benevolent and insurance order, formed among the members of the Catholic church. It was founded in 1890 and since then has made a wonderful growth. Branches have been established all over the State and applications are being received very frequently for the establishment of new branches. The State membership now numbers five thousand. Local branch, No. 23, is in a prosperous condition, has a membership of 102, with twelve applications on file. The Lima branch is making a great effort to insure a successful convention, and expect an attendance of from 1,500 to 2,000. Many branches have announced their intention of attending in a body.

The convention will be held in Music Hall, and all sessions will be secret.
